The Sky Just TURNED GREEN WTF

I was outside in Houston when the whole sky went this sickly greenish color, and it's not a storm. No lightning, no thunder. My radio started making weird sounds, and now my phone won't let me make calls. Can anyone confirm seeing this elsewhere?

EDIT: Okay, so people in Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois are reporting the same. This isn't just weather. What the hell is happening?

Gov Website Just Updated with a Single Word: "Evacuate."

I was checking NOAA's extreme weather page, and the entire thing is down except for a black screen with the word "Evacuate." Nothing else. No explanation.

Supermarket fight over a can of beans. This is it.

Went to Safeway to stock up. People were civil at first, then someone knocked over a display and it went feral. A guy literally BIT another guy over canned goods. Security did nothing. We're on our own.

Either the military is rolling out or we just got invaded

I live near Fort Bragg. About 40 helicopters just took off in formation. No lights, just moving fast. My uncle works in logistics and said he's "going dark" for a while.

"We were here when it happened."

Welcome to r/TheCollapseLive, your last real-time feed of updates, theories, and survival tips as everything falls apart. Whether you're witnessing events firsthand, gathering intel from fragmented broadcasts, or just trying to make sense of the chaos—this is the place to document it all.

We don't know exactly what's happening. The news networks are failing. Official channels have gone silent, or worse—broadcasting cryptic warnings. The internet is unreliable, major cities are dark, and rumors of mass evacuations, strange atmospheric changes, and military movements are spiraling out of control.
